EUROPEAN GOSSIP.

The Great Metropolis Mourns the Death of a Man Whose Life was Spotless.

Tommy Atkins' Discontent Increases—
Proposed Attempt to Reorganize
National League in America.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The afternoon papers, following the example of their morning contemporaries, publish glowing eulogies of the late Cardinal Newman, and dwell especially on the eminence of his services during the cholera epidemic in the Black country during the year 1849, when thousands were relieved by his ministrations.
Thousands of sincere mourners are arranging to follow his remains in the procession to his place of burial, Tuesday, and many other demonstrations in honor of his memory are in preparation. The beatitude of his life and the happiness of his last moments are also alluded to as entitling his memory to be honored by all Englishmen, and accentuating the certainty of his heavenly reward for his blameless career and spotless life.

TO EXHUME THE DEAD LEAGUE.
Timothy Harrington, M.P., has decided to accompany Wm. O'Brien and John Dillon on their proposed trip to America for the purpose of reorganizing the National League in the United States and placing it under the direct control of the present League in Ireland. During their stay in America they will deliver addresses in the principal cities and endeavor to infuse new life into the league propaganda in America, which, it is alleged, has nearly died out.

THEY WANT THE VALUE STATED.
Right Hon. J. G. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has received a memorial from the members of the House of Commons, asking the government to stamp on its circulation showing to another. In reply he willingness to stamp silver is.

REPRISE PARTY.
The government has received advice from the island of Yaponie of the men. The Pacific ocean, to the Carolina to punish the belligerent natives; a landing party was sent out in two beats, but they were compelled to return to the steamer again. The government has ordered a war ship to immediately proceed to Yap and punish the hostile natives.

TOMMY ATKINS' DISCONTENT GROWING.
The recent rebellions of several crack military regiments are discovered by official inquiry to have been incited by Socialists who in considerable numbers have obtained an entrance into the ranks of home regiments and made many converts among the men.

THE LEAGUE'S DEEP SYMPATHY.
The Irish National Land League, which was in session at Dublin to-day, passed a resolution expressive of its grief at hearing of the death of the American poet and patriot, John Boyle O'Reilly. It was also ordered that an appropriate expression of the league's deep sympathy with the family of the dead leader, be prepared and transmitted to America. The League then adjourned in respect to the memory of the deceased.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.
Prisoners Massacred by Arabs.
LONDON, Aug. 11.—An engagement has taken place between a force of rebel Arabs and the army of the Sultan. One hundred and twenty prisoners were captured by the rebels and all were massacred. Among the captives was a son of the governor of the province in which the uprising took place.
Portions of his body were cut off while he was yet alive and roasted. He was then compelled by the rebels to eat his own flesh.

Further Trouble at Chatham.
Further trouble occurred among the troops in garrison at Chatham a few days ago. The harness of the horses belonging to the artillery were so badly cut that it was necessary to abandon the proposed parade to-day. It was also discovered that the harness had again been hacked in such a manner as to render them entirely useless.
Three of the artillerymen who were leaders in the mutinous movement have deserted.

Ameer of Afghanistan at Kabul.
CABUL, Aug. 11.—The Ameer of Afghanistan has arrived here and received an enthusiastic reception. He was visited by a deputation comprising the principal chiefs, citizens and military officers, who presented him with 60,000 rupees to be devoted to charity.

Sorrow for John Boyle O'Reilly.
LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Parnellite members of Parliament held a special meeting this evening to record their sorrow that John Boyle O'Reilly was not spared to return from patriotic exile on the day of his country's freedom.

The Emperor at Heligoland.
BERLIN, Aug. 10.—The German imperial yacht Hohenzollern and the accompanying squadron anchored off Heligoland this morning. Emperor William and Prince Henry landed at noon and were met by Boetticher. The inhabitants gave the Emperor and his brother a hearty reception.

The Emperor delivered a short address and the German flag was hoisted. The land battery at the same time fired a salute. After taking luncheon, the Emperor departed at 3:30, amid the cheers of the populace.

A Russian Minister Insane.
PARIS, Aug. 12.—M. Persian, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Russia to the court of Belgrade, who is visiting Paris, has become insane and has been placed in confinement in this city.

The Jewish Persecution.
LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Lord Mayor announces that the result of the inquiries made with regard to the persecution of the Jews in Russia, gives reason to believe that the recently issued edicts will not be enforced by the Russian Government. The proposed protest meeting at the Mansion house is therefore postponed.

WESTMINSTER SPECIAL.
Heavy but Deserved Sentence Imposed by Magistrate Pittendridge Upon a Mexican Whiskey-Seller.
The Prisoner's Record of Twenty-One
Years in Jail—The Canneries Close Down.

(From Our Own Correspondent).
NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 12.— Gouromanos, alias Cloudy, the Mexican who caused the death of two Indian women last month by supplying them with intoxicants, under the influence of which a lamp was overturned, and they were so severely burned that they died from the effects of their injuries, was sentenced this morning in the police court to two years and six months' imprisonment with hard labor, and also fined $350. The charges were supplying intoxicating liquor to four Indian women, and also conveying the liquor into an Indian habitation. Capt. Pittendridge in imposing this, the heaviest sentence ever passed upon a prisoner in the police court at Westminster, severely censured Gouromanos, for the cowardly behaviour of which he had been guilty in fleeing when he saw the clothes of the Indian women on fire.

"Had your heart been warmed by the commonest sentiments of humanity you would have attempted to help the women in their agony. But no; you appear devoid of every spark of human feeling, and are a blot and a disgrace upon the name of man." Such was the tenor of the magistrate's remarks.
The prisoner visibly quailed under the just rebuke. This man has already served twenty-one years in jail.
The canneries closed down to-day.

Mormons Among the Indians.
OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Advices received by the government from Southern Alberta, Northwest territory, are to the effect that the Mormons who came into that country from Utah are corrupting the Indians with their doctrines. The government has been to great pains to impress upon the Indians
the necessity of monogamy, and refused them supplies for more than one wife, but the Mormons are teaching them many of the so-called advantages of multiplicity of wives. There are even indications that the Mormon evil in the West is liable to grow into a serious difficulty.

Grand Naval Review at Halifax.
HALIFAX, Aug. 12.—A review on an immense scale will take place here before the fleet leaves for Quebec. The warships will take an active part. It is understood that the fleet will attack the city. The military are making great preparations to repel the attack. Prince George will have charge of two ships. All the forts from the mouth of the harbour up will be tested to their fullest capacity. The Citadel fort will also take part. The plan of attack is now being perfected by Admiral White.
The forces will be located at various points.
It is said that there may also be a military and naval demonstration on the common.
The demonstration is likely to take place during the latter part of this week or the first of next.

Death of Judge O'Reilly.
HALIFAX, Ont., Aug. 12.—Judge Miles O'Reilly died to-day, aged 84. Deceased was Ontario's oldest barrister. He was the oldest Queen's counsel, with the exception of Sir John A. Macdonald, and the oldest judge in the Dominion.

A Shipwrecked Crew.
HALIFAX, Aug. 12.—Captain Olsen and crew of eight men, of the Norwegian bark Gerdo, which was wrecked on Sable island on the night of July 27, were brought to this port to-day by the steamboat Despatch.
The Gerdo was bound from Barbadoes for Quebec and is a total loss. Those on board were saved by the life-savers on Sable Island.

jury returned a verdict of willful murder against Arthur Hoyt Day, her husband.

His Last Pool Game.
TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—Jesse Hanbury, a bricklayer, dropped dead to-day from heart disease while playing pool. He recently returned from British Columbia.
H. W. Woodall, an employee of Ralph,
Smith & Co., also died suddenly of heart disease, at Chalmers mill, Montreal.

Wm. Hamilton of Ottawa, one of the head sawyers, was forced against a saw by the premature starting of the machinery, and instantly killed.

Both Poisoned.
TORONTO, Aug. 12.—At St. Thomas, Robert Pearson, while suffering from melancholy, took a dose of arsenic, dying last evening. Mrs. Campbell of Howick, a patient in the Montreal Protestant Hospital for the insane, has suicided with carbolic acid.

THE STRIKE BROKEN.
New York Central Trains Running Again—
The Entire Passenger and Freight Service Resumed.

New York, Aug. 11.—Officials of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad announces that there is now no interruption to traffic on the lines of the New York Central, and all through passenger trains are being run on time.

Vice-President Webb, of the New York Central, says he is confident that the backbone of the strike is broken. At 3 o'clock this afternoon there was much to sustain his position. At this end of the line everything seems working the company's way. The danger of serious trouble, however, is at Pikany and Syracuse and points beyond.
Reports say that the strikers at those points are in ugly make. At Syracuse several companies of militia are ready to move to any threatened place. At Albany there is a force of Pinkertons, whose presence is likely to provoke the strikers to acts of violence.
An interview with Chief Arthur reports him as saying that the engineers on the Central will not strike unless they have a grievance, and that they have none in common with the firemen's and conductors' organizations.

The Chicago mails, due at 6:45 this morning, reached here at 2:30 this afternoon.
The train also contained the Chicago mails that were due to arrive Sunday evening.
The train from Chicago due at 11:30 this morning, and which contains Western mails, and those for trans-Atlantic connections, had not reached here up to 5 o'clock.
All the other mails were more or less late.
During this afternoon and evening the Grand Central depot was as quiet as though no strike had occurred. Trains were continuously arriving and leaving, and the entire business of the depot had resumed a normal condition.
Vice-President Webb said at 9 o'clock this evening, and at midnight the situation is the same, that the strike, so far as the New York Central was concerned, was at an end. The entire passenger and freight service will be resumed to-morrow, and all trains will leave on schedule time. All the freight yards are open for the reception of freight.

SCENE IN THE COMMONS.

The Very Unflattering Language
Applied by Tanner to Home
Secretary Matthews.

The Quarrel Settled by the Withdrawal of the Offensive Words and an Apology.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—An extraordinary scene was enacted in the Commons this evening, while Mr. Matthews, Home Secretary, held the floor. Mr. Matthews was addressing the House in reply to the severe censures which had been passed upon his method of dealing with the matter of capital sentences, when he was interrupted by Mr. Tanner, member for the middle division of Cork, who exclaimed, "How about Dangren?"
To this Matthews replied "I do not know who that vulgar interrupter is." Tanner immediately appealed to the chairman, who justified the expression which Matthews had made use of. Upon this Tanner sprang to his feet and in a loud and angry voice denounced the Home Secretary as "The meanest hound that had ever sat upon a treasury bench." A scene of intense excitement followed, members demanding that the words be taken down; other shaking their fists at one another, and others handing epithets.
At this juncture Sexton approached Tanner, and with considerable difficulty persuaded that gentleman to withdraw the offensive words and offer an apology.

AMERICAN NEWS.

K. of L. Meeting in New York.

New York, Aug. 12.—A meeting of the Knights of Labor from all local assemblies and many in the vicinity was held to-day.
The meeting was held with closed doors.
Thomas Gaffney presided, and over six hundred knights were present. Much interest centered in Master Workman Lee as to how he would explain the letter alleged to have been written by him to Mr. Voorhees, of the Central road last April. Mr. Lee in a short statement absolutely denied the authorship of the letter, and branded it as a forgery. He then outlined the present situation of the strike and declared that the knights would win. He added "If the situation requires it I will see that other bodies of knights come out. Many others of the Central road will soon follow our example." "The general executive board," he said, "alone had power to order out at one time men on roads throughout the country, and any apparent delay in forcing a conclusion is because we are now waiting the endorsement by that body." Mr. Lee stated that no conference had been had with Mr. Voorhees. A vote of confidence was then given Lee, and the meeting declared to leave the entire control of affairs in the hands of their executive officers.

Sale of Immoral Books.
NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Patrick Farrelly, manager of the American News Co., and two of his clerks, were before the grand jury to-day to answer to a charge of selling immoral books. The complaint was made by the agent of the society for the enforcement of criminal laws. Among the books, the sale of which was sought to be prevented, was Tolstois "Kreutzer Sonata." The grand jury dismissed the charges.

The Erie System Complete.
INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 12.—The Chicago &
Atlantic railway was sold to-day by Master of Commissioners W. P. Fishback, to Chas.
H. Coshier of New York, representing Drexel & Morgan. Coshier was the only bidder. The purchase was made in the interest of the Erie railroad and will be re-organized and operated by the Erie with John King, Jr., as president. This will complete the Erie system, giving it a trunk line from Chicago to New York.

Beautifying the Cemetery.
Despite the dry weather the appearance of many of the burial lots at the cemetery is really refreshing. The grass has a living greenness that contrasts most delightfully with the dryness by which it is surrounded.
The growing flowers and bouquets are as different in their appearance as it is possible to be, the highest evidence being only found around those graves where other than amateurs have exercised their skill. A few afternoons since a COLONIST man surveyed
"God's acre," and was very much gratified with what he saw. He was shown round by Mr. William H. Smith, a practical, experienced gardener, who has latterly established himself among the tombs, the proof of whose skill and faithfulness were frequently apparent. The idea is, indeed, a pretty one, of making our graveyard attractive. They are not a final resting place; there, we are taught, a better hope beyond them, and therefore there is every reason why these resting places of the departed should be beautified so as to, in some measure, mitigate the sorrow of those who have loved ones sleeping there.

A STEAMER IN THE RAPIDS.

Paula on a Boat Loaded With G. A. R. Ex-curionists.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—Twenty-five hundred Grand Army men, with their wives and children, left Chicago for Boston via Niagara Falls, Valencia river and Montreal on Friday. Most of them were from posts in cities outside of Chicago. Many came from Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning five big steamer loads left Kingston to go through Sault rapids. All the boats were packed with Grand Army men and their families. The Bohemian, the largest of the boats, carried between 600 and 700 passengers. The long Sault rapids were passed safely, and the day was very pleasantly spent. The boat was fearfully crowded. About 7 o'clock great clouds began gathering in the west, and the sky began to darken. The wind freshened considerably, too, and a big storm was predicted. There was yet one series of rapids to go through, as dangerous as any, but the captain of the Bohemian thought he could reach them before darkness set in. The upper deck forward of the boat was packed with people watching the first plunge of the steamer, when there was a brilliant flash of lightning, and rain began to fall in sheets. The people made a rush for the cabin and shelter, and as the steamer entered the rapids she rolled fearfully, and the people surged from side to side. Suddenly a sound of cracking timbers was heard, and women shrieked and fainted. There were heard several hoarse commands from the pilot. On the upper deck beams had cracked, but the floor had sunk a few inches and jammed the tiller chain leading from the pilot house. The steamer in the midst of the boiling rapids was entirely beyond control. When it became known that the boat was unmanageable, a panic ensued. People rushed here and there, except those that had fainted, and worse than all, the crew and waiters made a rush for the piles of life-preservers in the centre cabin and on the after-deck and began strapping them on. The war veterans aboard kept their wits about them, and fought the cowards away from the life-preservers, while as quickly as possible they strapped as many as they could find on the women and children. There was not enough by half to go round. The boat in the meantime had turned entirely around and was now going down the rapids stern first.

Suddenly there was a terrible jar. The steamer had struck a rock. Slowly she began to turn around again, and then came another shock, followed by another, each of them heavier than the first. Another shock came, and the steamer gave a mighty heave and plunge, as if she were going down head first, and then slowly turned her head to the rapids, where there was another rock. She touched this and took the last plunge through the rapids out into the open, clear water.

The captain yelled: "We're all right now." The crew had got over their panic, and had been working hard clearing the tiller chains, during the most critical time, and by the time they had cleared the rapids the steamer was under control again. Here she was turned ashore, and within twenty minutes the party was disembarking at the Beauharnois canal pier.

POLLUTION OF FISH STREAMS.

Enforcement of a New Law Will Stop Coal and Placer Mining at Washington.

TACOMA, Aug. 10.—Important industries are threatened by the enforcement of the fish law passed by the last legislature. By this law the water of any stream may not be polluted in any way to such an extent that the fish in the streams are injured. The fish commissioner recently notified Superintendent Davies, of the Carbonado mines that coal must no longer be washed in the Carbonado river. Davies replied that the coal was of such a nature that it must necessarily be washed, and the Carbonado was the only stream available. If the order was complied with the mines must close. A reply came that the law must be complied with. The Wilkeson mines are also in the same predicament. The Carbonado mines are owned by the Pacific Improvement Company (the Southern Pacific).

Davies went at once to San Francisco and placed the whole situation before them. The company replied that if the order was enforced the mine could be closed and California could be supplied with coal from British Columbia. The pay-rolls of the Carbonado mines is $35,000 to $50,000 per month, and the Wilkeson mines are fully as large. Coal men say the law is very faulty; that only a few sportsmen are interested in preserving the fish, which are small and few, the stream being only ten feet wide, and that it is a short-sighted policy to preserve them at such enormous expense. It is true that the sulphur washed from the coal will destroy fish. Enforcement of this law will also interfere with mining gold and silver. The order takes effect August 18. The matter will no doubt be taken to the courts, and an effort will also be made to have the legislature, when the special session is called, repeal or amend the present law.

The San de Fuca and Northwestern Railroad Company will be incorporated in a few days by J. J. Malone, H. K. Moore, G. W. Peck, C. E. Hayden, W. P. Bancroft, and S. E. Southard, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. Messrs. Gillespie, Jennings, Monnee and Powers, of San de Fuca, are busy raising subsidies. The rails and fish plates for the road have been ordered.

Frank C. Ross, of Tacoma, proposes to build a railroad from Gig Harbour north-west through Kitsap county to Ho-d's Canal, to cross that channel by ferry boats, and run through the Olympic mountains to Port Angeles. Mr. Ross has had surveys out in the mountains for two months and claims to have found the easiest pass yet discovered. The whole route has been surveyed. Subsidies have been secured along the inhabited part of the route, and construction is to begin as soon as the preparations are completed. A line of ferry-boats is to connect the road with Tacoma.

The Spokane Falls Spokesman says: "Great Northern surveyors are at work in the Kootenai country, and, although the line has not been cross-sectioned, it is definitely settled. Competent engineers claim about a year will be required for the road to build to Spokane Falls, as there is a good deal of heavy work to do in the mountains. It will, most probably, not run direct into Spokane Falls, but will come into this city over the Spokane Falls and Northern railroad. This will give this city a direct connection practically as if the line was built here directly, and it will have the extra advantage of enabling the Great Northern to give Spokane Falls terminal rates without being obliged to give the same figures to all points between this and the Sound, west of the crossing of the Spokane and Northern. The road will run through Okanagan country to a connection with the Fairhaven & Southern, which the Great Northern recently purchased. Another important railroad project that is now on the tapis is this: An arrangement is contemplated between the Spokane and Northern and the Great Northern by which the former road will be extended west through the Colville reservation to a junction with the Fairhaven & Southern, completing the connection outlined in one of the above paragraphs. The Great Northern will then have only to build from Montana to a junction with the Spokane and Northern, and in the meantime the Spokane and Northern can build west and the Fairhaven & Southern east, and will complete the Great Northern's line to the coast in less than eighteen months. Mr. Corbin already has permission from Congress to cross the Colville reservation, which will probably be thrown open next year to settlement.

AE ACTRESS' PROGRESS

On the American Stage in the Emotional School of the Drama.

The American stage of to-day can boast of but two actresses who are properly entitled to the distinction of having obtained prominence in the distinctly emotional school of the drama. They are the talented, though somewhat erratic, Clara Morris, and the brilliant and beautiful Maud Granger. The last named made her appearance on the stage of The Victoria last night in a new play written by Richard Davey. She is one of the most popular actresses of the day. She is a graduate of the same school that has produced Clara Morris, Rose Eytinge, Kate Claxton, Rose Coghlan and Fanny Davenport, and has been associated with them all at various times in the stock companies of the leading theatres of New York. She has been leading lady in turn at Daly's, the Union Square, the Eighth Avenue, and Wallack's in New York city. She has supported in leading roles many eminent actors.

Miss Granger fully realizes however that no matter how popular an actress may become the public will in time tire of the old repertory and demand something new. When in Europe a year ago she heard of the production of a new play at the Theatre de L'Applique, Paris, which was described to her as a play of singular intensity and dramatic worth. Acting upon a suggestion she witnessed the initial production of the play, and was greatly impressed with its beauty and the opportunities it offered to an emotional star. She at once negotiated for its purchase but found a rival in no less a personage than the great French actress, Sara Bernhardt, who was herself present at the first performance of the piece. Miss Granger succeeded in securing it, however, and when she left for America, brought it with her. The first production of the piece by her in this country was at the New National Theatre, Washington. She had changed the title from "L'Heritage de Helene" to "Inherited," and the play proved a success even beyond what was anticipated. "Inherited" is singular in some respects to Sardon's "Fidra," though the morale is of a decidedly different flavor.

A DESPERATE BATTLE.

Fight Underneath the Water Between a Man and Shark.

An exciting battle between a man and shark took place in the water off the pier in New Brighton recently. The famous diver, Burns, who was inspecting the foundations of the pier, was in the act of ascending to the surface of the water, when a huge shark attempted to seize him. Burns watched and warned the monster off as best he could, but was slowly getting the worst of the fight when some boatmen near by threw him a knife. With this weapon he boldly attacked the shark, and after a fierce struggle succeeded in ripping it open. Having thus disposed of his enemy, Burns seized the shark by the head and towed it ashore amid the cheers of the spectators.

THE SKIN.

I. There's a skin without, and a skin within. A covering skin, and a lining skin. But the skin within is the skin without. Doubled inwards and carried completely throughout.

II. The palate, the nostrils, the windpipe and throat. All of them lined with this inner coat. Which through every part is made to extend. Lungs, liver, and bowels from end to end.

III. The outside skin is a marvellous plan. Far exceeding the drops of the flesh of man. While the inner extracts from the food and the air. What is needed the waste of the flesh to repair.

IV. Too much brandy, whisky, or gin. Is apt to disorder the skin within. While, if dirty and dry, the skin without Refuses to let the sweat come out.

V. Good people all, have a care of your skin. Wash it with soap and water, and keep it cool. To the first give plenty of water and soap. To the last, little else but water, we hope.

VI. But always be very particular where you get your water, your food, and your air. For if these be tainted or rendered impure, It will leave its effect on the blood, be sure.

VII. The food which will ever for you be the best Is that you like most and can easiest digest. All unripe fruit and decaying flesh. Beware of, and fish that is not very fresh.

VIII. The water, transparent and pure as you think it. Had better be filtered and boiled ere you drink it. Unless you know surely that nothing around Can have got to it over or under the ground.

IX. But of all things most I would have you be aware Of breathing the poison of once-breathed air. When in bed, whether out or at home you may be. Always open the windows and let it go free.

X. With clothing and exercise keep yourselves warm. And change your clothes quickly if caught in a storm. For a cold caught by chilling the outside skin Flies at once to the delicate lining within.

XI. All you who thus kindly take care of your skin. And attend to its wants without and within. Need never of cholera feel any fears. And your skin may last you a hundred years. —Sir Alfred Power.

FROM THE EAST.

Japanese and Chinese Notes.—The Situation in Rice-Census of Shanghai—A Widow's Harikari.

There is an increasing amount of poverty in Hong, in the Capital, due to the recent conflagration.

A statue of the late Paul Bert was to be inaugurated at Hanoi on the 14th ult. M. Klobukowski, Consul for France at Yokohama, and Madame Klobukowski had arrived to take part in the ceremony. Madame Klobukowski is a daughter of the distinguished statesman and scientist in whose honor the statue has been erected.

Three thousand more bags of foreign rice were offered for sale recently by public tender, from the Hyogo granaries but, owing to the low prices offered, only 1,200 bags were sold. The highest offer received was $5.05 per koku, and the lowest $4.90.

There is a great distress among the poorer classes of Hako, and a few merchants have succeeded in obtaining over 6,000 dollars, with which they intend to buy rice—store it—and relieve the most necessitous cases of poverty only, so as to husband their store for the coming winter, which all think will be very severe northwards.

A service of carrier pigeons is being introduced in Tonkin. The other day sixteen pigeons covered the distance between Tuyen-quan and Hanoi, 75 miles, in two hours.

On the seventeenth June there was a revolt amongst the prisoners at the French convict station of Poulo-Condore. About 400 Tonkinese convicts overpowered their guards and then spread themselves over the island. Ten of the convicts were killed and as many wounded.

The largest cargo of rice ever brought to Penang by any single ship arrived recently from Moulanby in the British India steamer Lavada, which had no less than 42,000 bags on board. This and several other cargoes are all intended for Hongkong, whence the produce will be shipped to Japan. Some Chinese rice merchants are in consequence reaping a golden harvest at present, one firm alone having made more than $50,000 profit during the month.

The census taken at Shanghai on the 24th June shows that the total foreign population (exclusive of those living on the French concession) was 3,821 as compared with 3,673 in 1885, 2,197 in 1880, 1,673 in 1876, and 1,666 in 1870. The total includes 1,811 adult males, 979 adult females, 479 boys, and 552 girls. The native population was 168,129. On the French concession the foreign population was composed of 173 adult males, 123 adult females, 27 boys and 21 girls.

With regard to the war in Acheen the Penang Gazette says: It is satisfactory to learn that the fighting in Edie is nearly over. There is talk of another expedition to Edie Choo, which it is expected will bring the war to a close. Both the artillery and cavalry have since left for Koto Radja.

All vessels are prohibited from entering any of the harbors of Cacha (Tongkin) in consequence of a blockade being proclaimed there, the object of which is to put down piracy which exists in those islands.

Wuchang is becoming one of the most important cities in China. H. E. Chang Chih-tung, Viceroy of the Hukwang provinces, bringing over all the projects which were originally conceived for Canton. He has already commenced the construction of a cotton factory, which is to have 20,000 spindles. Plant, machinery, and apparatus for works for smelting iron and manufacturing steel rails have also been ordered. A small-arm and gun factory on a small scale are likewise to be established at Wuchang, and the machinery has been ordered from Germany.

A Shanghai native paper says that the Shanghai Magistrate having received a despatch from H. E. Nieh Taotai, who had orders on the subject from the Viceroy at Nanking, has given permission to a merchant to run small fast boats, either steamers or stern wheelers worked by foot power, to run such as Sochow and Hangchow for trading purposes or carrying passengers; trial has already been made with two boats brought from Canton with results satisfactory in every way. Some more boats will be built after their pattern, and the regular service will begin shortly.

An ice company has been formed at Shanghai, and is already incorporated under German law. The capital is Tls. 36,000, divided into 360 fully paid-up shares of Tls. 100 each. The necessary machinery, is expected to arrive at Shanghai about the end of the year, and will be most thoroughly tested on shipment in order to secure efficient working when set up.

A case of self-immolation by a young woman of 24 years of age recently took place at a village called Ngi-su, about 10 miles distant from Nan-tai, in consequence of her husband having died of leprosy about the 17th February, she being childless, and having no one except distant relatives to depend upon for support, had no other alternative. The Chinese consider it a matter of great virtue in a woman who puts an end to her life in this manner. Several invitations to dinner in grand style were given her, which she gladly accepted and partook of with great joy, as if nothing was to happen in the sequel. After the feast she ascended the stage expressly built, where the elders of the village came to know each other three times before her just in the same manner as if she were a Joss; after this a signal by firing of a gun was given that she might accomplish her purpose. As soon as the gun was fired she ascended the scaffold, with her hands unpinned, and strangled herself. Her body was placed in the coffin, duly prepared beforehand.

THE LABOR CONTROVERSY.

TO THE EDITOR:—There are some things that appear almost paradoxical in the contests between the Union and the employer of labor. For instance, the Union is a totally irresponsible body; the employer is responsible. Any agreement made with the Union cannot be enforced, and, therefore, would only last as long as the Union deemed fit. On the other hand, an agreement made by the employer is recoverable at law. The members of the Union and the Union itself are quite different matters, the former having no legal standing, and, moreover, is not governed by any limiting charter, and, therefore, no binding agreements can be made. The Union is not an incorporated body. There is no limit to its powers or demands. The employer on the other hand can be sued by the employed. Some fair charter would seem to be necessary for the Union. Again, the wages of miners and equality. Say, for instance, coal is one dollar per ton, one man on a particular seam takes out three tons per day; another man, an equally good miner in every respect, has a refractory seam and can only take out one ton. In this case the pay for the same amount of labor is unequal. If the principle of socialism be correct, all the miners should put their earnings into a common fund and divide this equally among the workers. This would be equality. Of course to settle these matters as between the union and employers, it seems that the former require a definite character, and branches of it real or supposed, should be adjudicated as any ordinary legal case. The City of Victoria, for instance, is not superior to its charter or the courts of law.

THIS AND THAT.

During these still summer nights nature finds plenty to dew.

Not an Expert.—"Harming Susan—What is a thick, short neck the sign of? Dear Jones—I give it up. I never studied necromancy."

Most Likely.—"Wife—What do you suppose baby is thinking about? The Brute—I s'pose he's thinking what to cry about to-night."

A Temperance Lecture.—"Avoid whiskey and water, my son," said the father. "It is a dilution and a snare."

A Free Translation.—"Papa," said Willie, what is a rara avis? "A rara my son, is a dude with brains. You rarely ever see one."

GRATIFYING HIM. I begged her not to say me nay; 'Twas then this naughty Trix Made her reply another way. And mildly answered—"Nix."

Some of our Congressmen would be only too glad to break their records if they knew where they could hide the pieces.

They All Do It.—"I didn't get a fish." "But you brought home a nice mess." "Yes, I followed the advice of the wise man and hired a haul."

Cumso.—Jaysmith is penurious, isn't he? Fangle—I should say he was! He won't even laugh at a joke unless it is at someone else's expense.

Talking Yet.—"Bismarek is still loyal," remarked Snively, looking up from the newspaper. "He may be loyal," replied Snodgrass, "but he isn't still."

Gus De Smith—I am head over ears in love with your daughter. Judge Peterby—I suppose those ears are the same ones over which you are in debt.

THE TRUE PHILOSOPHY. Lives of rich men all remind us. We can make our own sublime. And by liberal adorning. To the highest summit climb.

The other day the types made me speak of my college days. It should have been callow days, which is much the same thing.

Rare Occurrence in Boston.—Customer (handing back a mutilated coin)—I want a better half. Salesgirl (abstractedly)—Oh, sir, I think you, but I'm engaged to George Robbins.

Bismarek is an average man. When he knew all about the policy and conduct of the German government he would say nothing. Now that he knows nothing he talks all the time.

All Clear Above.—Accepted Suitor—But won't you find it awkward, Blanche, when you meet your first husband in heaven? Pretty Widow—My dear George, I'm not a bit afraid of that ever happening.

Party Politics.

This Company is formed for the purpose of acquiring and extending the well-known and old established business of "The Vancouver Ale, Porter and Steam Beer Brewery" in the City of Victoria.

The promoters, confidently expect, by the aid of capital and influence, to largely extend the business and introduce the production of Lager Beer, for which there is a large and growing demand throughout the Province. They will also shortly commence distilling.

The quantity of Lager Beer passed through the Custom House, Victoria, B. C., for the six months ended December 21st, 1889, was as follows: 1 c., 13,430 gallons in bottles, 12,705 gallons in casks.

The quantity of spirits passed through the Inland Revenue Office for the year ended 30th June last was $6,019.33 proof gallons, and probably an addition of 50 per cent. may be made to this for lots entered duty paid.

Shares are offered to the public for subscription by a deposit of 50 per cent. per share in allotment, and the balance by assessments as required; no one assessment to exceed 10 per cent. of the subscribed capital.

Forms of application may be had of the promoters or secretary. Jly25-tf

EXPERT TESTIMONY.

In its Saturday's issue, the Times enters into a discussion as to how the Messrs. Dunsmuir should manage their mines. Is not our contemporary going out of the proper track of journalism when it discusses men's private business? There are a great many private concerns in the country; would it be well if the newspapers enquired into the methods of those who carried them on and undertook to pass judgment on their management? We think if newspapers became inquisitorial and went prying into every man's private business they would be regarded as intolerably impertinent, and would be denounced as nuisances. Provided men carry on their lawful business in a lawful way it is generally believed that they should be secure from newspaper criticism.

The Times, however, is of a different opinion. It takes upon itself the function of judge and, upon what authority it is difficult to conjecture, decides the questions in dispute between the Messrs. Dunsmuir and the striking miners.

It examines two witnesses, Mr. Robbins, the manager of the Vancouver mine, and Mr. Bryden, the manager of the Wellington mine, pronounces Mr. Robbins' testimony the more worthy of consideration and straightway decides against the Messrs. Dunsmuir.

There are people in the country who might take exception to the competency of a newspaper to judge in such a matter, and they might ask a few questions as to the ground on which the Times accepts Mr. Robbins' testimony as that of an expert in the management of coal mines. We do not see that our contemporary has made any enquiry as to the qualification of its favored witness to give expert testimony. Has it asked Mr. Robbins if he is a practical miner? Has he received the training of a mine manager? Has he taken the examinations which men in Great Britain who make the oversight of coal mines their business are required to pass? Does he hold the certificate of competency to manage a mine? Has his connection with coal mines been that of an accountant? Has his knowledge of coal-mining and of the economy of coal mines been acquired chiefly from lodgers and other books of account? Is the secretary of a mining company in a position to be a good judge as to how a mine ought to be managed?

Then again, is Mr. Robbins a perfectly disinterested witness? Is it immaterial to him and the mine of which the Times says he is the manager, whether the Wellington mine is working or idle? We are of opinion that if the Times had made these enquiries which common sense and common justice require to be made, it would not, if its object is to arrive at the truth, have accepted Mr. Robbins' testimony so eagerly, and rejected that of Mr. Bryden so summarily. It would have found that, both on the score of skill and disinterestedness, Mr. Robbins was not exactly a model witness or one in whose evidence implicit faith was to be placed.

The Times says that Mr. Robbins has tried the grievance committee and Mr. Bryden has not, and that therefore more faith should be placed in Mr. Robbins' opinion as to its operation, than in that of Mr. Bryden who has had no personal experience of such committees, but who depends upon the accounts he has received from other mine managers. This sounds plausible, but it is not for that reason necessarily sound. Mr. Robbins is trying his experiment, the result of which has not yet been fully developed. It is not good to halloo before we are out of the wood. It may happen that Mr. Robbins has tried his experiment under favorable circumstances, and that the fact that a grievance committee has not yet been accepted by the Wellington mine-owners has had the effect of moderating the demands of the grievance committee in the mines managed by Mr. Robbins; and it may be that there are little circumstances which Mr. Robbins did not consider it expedient to speak of, which, if generally known, would very considerably modify the opinion of the interviewer as to the prudence of giving a committee of miners the power which is demanded. Mr. Robbins was not cross-examined, he was not under any obligation to tell the reporter the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and besides, as according to his own admission, the stopping of the Wellington mines means more business for the Vancouver Coal company, he may not have been very desirous of saying anything that would have the effect of putting an end to what is to him, such a pleasant state of things. And then again, while the good time lasts, the manager of the Vancouver Coal company may find it expedient to put up with little unpleasantness that would not be tolerated under other circumstances.

If the grievance committee is so notable a success in the Vancouver Coal company's mine as it is represented to be in the Times, it is not by any means likely that the opposition to it would be so strong in Wellington as it is. The mines are not far apart, and what happens in one is soon known by those who are connected with the other, and it is not at all probable that a method which has proved to be a brilliant success at Nanaimo would be rejected at Wellington.

Mr. Bryden has acted in this matter as prudent and thoughtful men always act. He has enquired into the working of grievance committees in other mines, and the result is that he has come to the conclusion that the introduction of such a committee into the Wellington mine would not be for the benefit of either the owners or the miners. He has come to this conclusion, too, after observing how this committee work in the mine in his own neighborhood. The doctrine propounded by the Times that the evidence of the experience of others is not to be depended upon, and that we must ourselves try an experiment before we can decide whether what is recommended to us is hurtful or beneficial is neither safe nor sound. It is not necessary to take a dose of laudanum in order to be convinced that opium is poisonous.

The Times is a little too hasty in deciding that the system pursued at Wellington is a failure and in pronouncing the experiment which is being tried at Nanaimo a success. The time may come when it may have reason to conclude that it was a little presumptuous in taking upon itself to decide on a subject about which it knows absolutely nothing, and of acting as if it considered that ignorance and inexperience are more likely to find the true solution of a difficult problem than knowledge and experience.

It must be always remembered while discussing this subject that there is no question of wages or of fair treatment between the miners and the mine owners of Wellington. The men could have continued to work at good wages and on the old terms.

WRONG AGAIN.

As an interpreter of the law the organ of the Opposition will not take the cake. It asserts that the laws regulating the calling out of troops are essentially the same in both Canada and the United States and then goes on to say: "In each country the military force is the force of last resort. Not until the civil forces have been tried and found wanting may the military force be legally employed."

Now what does the military law as quoted by the Times itself say with respect to calling out the troops? Just this: "The Active Militia or any corps thereof shall be liable to be called out for active service, with their arms and ammunition, in aid of the civil power, in any case in which a riot, disturbance of the peace, or other emergency requiring such service occurs, or is in the opinion of the civil authorities hereinafter mentioned, CONTEMPLATED AS LIKELY TO OCCUR, and in either case, to be beyond the power of the civil authorities to suppress or prevent, etc."

In the second section these words occur—"for the purpose of preventing or suppressing any such actual or anticipated riot." . . . "in which such riot, disturbance, or other emergency occurs, or is anticipated as aforesaid."

It is quite evident that the Dominion law looks as much to the prevention of disaster as to its suppression. This, we consider, a wise provision. It does not, as the Times asserts, provide for the locking of the door after the horse is stolen. There is nothing in it about "a last resort," or about "arrests being made." What it does is to authorize the magistrates to call out the Active Militia, if in their opinion a riot is likely to break out which it is beyond the civil powers to suppress. It was, therefore, for the magistrates to consider whether the civil power was sufficiently strong in Wellington to quell a disturbance raised by between two and three hundred excited and angry miners. It evidently is not the intention of the law that the magistrates should wait until property is destroyed or life sacrificed, before they make their requisition. We find that in Great Britain and the United States there is very little hesitation in calling out the troops when in the opinion of the civil authorities they are really needed.

THE EIGHT HOURS' LAW.

A very interesting discussion took place in London on the eight hour's question between Mr. Bradlaugh, M.P., and Mr. H. M. Hyndman, a leader of the British socialists and a very able man. Mr. Bradlaugh does not believe in making eight hours compulsory by statute. He believes that the trade combinations can secure the eight hours' rule whenever it is possible without the intervention of law. He also maintains that some industries would be ruined if the eight hours' rule were made compulsory by statute.

Mr. Hyndman believes in the nationalization of capital of all kinds. He wants the nation to be the only employer of labor and the only paymaster. The eight hours' rule he looks upon as only a very small installment of the justice that is due to the world's workers, but it is he thinks an instalment worth working for. As he believes that all industries should be carried on by the State and regulated by laws ordained by the State, an eight hours law is therefore in perfect accordance with his principles. The proposition which each of the disputants undertook to prove will give the intelligent reader a good idea of the stand which they and their respective schools take on this question. Mr. Hyndman's proposition was:

"That the enactment by law of eight hours a day, or 48 hours a week, as the maximum amount of work for adults in all factories, mines, workshops, and businesses conducted for profit will prove a valuable palliative of our present industrial anarchy."

He supported this proposition with great vigor and considerable eloquence. He was declamatory rather than argumentative. It was evident that he carried the large majority of the audience with him.

Mr. Bradlaugh submitted the following proposition, which he supported by close reasoning and the production of facts and figures:

"That it is desirable that all wage-earners should work the smallest number of hours per day consistent with the profitable conduct of the industry in which they are respectively engaged. That the limitation to eight hours a day as the period during which an industrial establishment may be carried on would be fatal to many large industries in this country. That the hours of labor in each industry should be severally settled by conciliatory conference between the employed and employers or their representatives."

Mr. Bradlaugh is a debater of proved ability, but his argumentative style did not take so well with the audience as his rival's fervid oratory. He was interrupted by exclamations of dissent, and the uproar was at one time so great that the chairman, Mr. Buxton, M.P., was obliged to interfere in order to obtain for him a fair hearing.

The London Times considered this debate of sufficient importance to be the subject of a leading article. It is hardly necessary to say that its estimate of the speeches differed from that of the audience. It declared that Mr. Bradlaugh had the best of the argument, though it does not appear quite satisfied with the way in which he acquitted himself. What the Times says about the success of the eight hours' law in the countries in which it has been enacted may be of interest to our readers. It says:

"There are Eight Hours' Acts in several American States, and in several of our colonies, and, nevertheless, in no one instance is it alleged that the Act is systematically enforced; while, on the other hand, it is asserted that the law is systematically evaded whenever it suits employers and employed. Indeed, there is no escape from the dilemma, that if an Eight Hours' Act is to be effective it would constitute a grave and well nigh intolerable infringement of the liberty of the subject, while if it is to be ineffectual there is no reason for passing it. For our own part, we retain the opinion that an eight hours' day is attainable by trade organization whenever it is suitable to the character of the trade—and it must be remembered that there are many trades, such as the textile industry, and all the industries carried on by home work, where it is wholly unsuitable and impracticable."

It will be seen from this that there are two sides to this eight hours question. That the Times should take the Conservative view of it is not to be wondered at, but it is surprising to see Mr. Bradlaugh, who was but the other day the most radical of the Radicals, taking the same view of this labor question as the London Times.

SKIN DISEASES

Itching, Burning, Scaly, Crusted, Pimply and Blotchy Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

ACLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONIAL.

About two years ago I was attacked with an inflammatory disease on my face (pityriasis), which was very troublesome, being extremely itchy and painful, giving rise to the production of small, bean-like scales. My general health was affected by it. I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP according to directions, and experienced a change from the very first day; they worked wonderfully, and by their continued use for about five months I was completely cured. I have unbounded faith in the CUTICURA Remedies. I regard the CUTICURA RESOLVENT as the very best blood purifier; a trial will convince any one. The CUTICURA SOAP is the best in the market, and cheap at twice its present price. I shall use no other for the toilet and bath. With the prevalence of skin diseases among us as a people and that they are the most difficult to deal with, I regard the CUTICURA REMEDIES of more important and intrinsic value to the world than any other medicine now before the public. I am, with deep gratitude,

Heating and Ventilating Houses.

One great advantage that is obtained by heating a house with a warm air furnace over all other systems, is that it not only heats but ventilates the house. Fresh air is drawn from the outside to the furnace chamber, heated and distributed through pipes to the different rooms, and men and mectely have some contracts now on hand.

Gratifying Results.

Latest advice received from Rock Creek, tell of the existence of a very satisfactory state of affairs in that vicinity. The Aurora mines are turning out results that cannot but be gratifying and encouraging to the owners. One of the owners, referring to this state of things, said last evening that things could not be better than they are.

Wedded in Old England.

Wedding bells have chimed across the Atlantic ocean and the Canadian continent the marriage of Lieutenant E. R. Pears, of H.M.S. Britannia, to Miss Jeanie Mayhew Innes, daughter of Mr. J. H. Innes, of Esquimalt. The marriage took place at St. Giles' church, in the scholastic city of Oxford, England, and was performed by the Rev. A. L. Mayhew, chaplain of Wadhurst.

Street Car Work.

The last shipment of rails for the Esquimalt extension of the street cars has arrived and are being rapidly placed along the route. The progress in the construction of this undertaking is very satisfactory, the rails already being laid as far as Admiral's road, and the grading having reached the cañon hill. The work has made a vast improvement to the road, as drivers can testify.

I. O. O. F.

At a meeting of the Colfax Rebecca Degree Lodge No. 1, held in their hall, Douglas street, yesterday evening, the following officers were installed by Acting Grand Master, Grand Representative Waller N. G., Sister Waller, V. G., Sister Walker, R. and P. S., Sister Huxtable, treasurer, Sister Melnam, conductor, Sister Neill, warden, Sister J. Carter, L. G., Sister A. Carter, O. G., Bro. Huxtable, R. E. N. G., Sister Summerville, L. S. N. G., Sister McCahill, R. S. V. G., Sister Gossnell, L. S. V. G., Sister Taylor, chaplain, Sister Bates.

Developments at the North.

A coal mining enterprise is being developed at Chatham Point, at a spot where operations were abandoned many years since by the Hudson's Bay Company. There is every prospect of success for the new enterprise, the surface croppings being of excellent quality, giving at the same time indications of great profusion.

The saw-mill at Alert bay, belonging to the missionary society, and which is being run principally by the Indians, under the direction of their pastor, Rev. A. J. Hall, of the Church of England, is doing fairly well. The establishment of an industrial school at this point is talked of.

Malcolm Island has been acquired by persons in the old country, and bids fair to have a good trial in so far as concerns its capabilities for development. It is heavily timbered and its soil is gravelly. Mr. D. Spencer is on the spot and is about to clear land and build houses on which to establish people who may be brought out.

"The Dominion Illustrated."

The latest issue of this fine pictorial paper has come to all Canadians. As usual, the honors are divided—east and west and centre being all represented, either by portraits or by scenery. Of the former there are four—Lieut. Governor Daly, of Nova Scotia, and the late Sir Dominick Daly, and late Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons; the Rev. Arthur J. Lockhart, the poet and essayist; the late R. Hay, of Toronto, and Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, Head Master of Trinity College School, Port Hope. Of the latter institution there are some handsome illustrations. The aborigines of Canada are exemplified by three distinct types—the Ojibway of Lake Superior, the Haides of Queen Charlotte Islands, and the Salish of Southern British Columbia. The bountifulness of the Lake St. John region is set forth by two typical views—one showing a fine wheat field at St. Felicien, Niagara, always in season, is beautifully depicted. The illustrations of this number equal those of any of the preceding issues. The letter-press pertaining to the illustrations is exceptionally full and instructive.

Canadian Manufactured Wines.

Away back from the little town of St. Catharines, Ont., is the Ontario grape juice and wine manufacturing company, whose object is to establish for Canada the reputation of being able to manufacture her own wine. Several samples yesterday found their way into the office of Messrs. G. C. Shaw and company. They were a bottle of claret, light sherry, light port, one of Catawba, Concord and Diana, the latter three being light white wines. There is no Canadian that will not recognise the virtues of the Concord grape. It is a very old time fruit and a great favorite, grown in the Niagara district, the garden of Ontario. The Concord gives the full flavor of this grape in a wine of delicious freshness and purity. It is a wine that one can drink with comfort. The Diana has the same commendable features in the matter of absence of adulteration, but with a sparkle resembling champagne. The Catawba is also a sweet, delicious wine. The claret is somewhat of a surprise to the palate accustomed to the California and other imported clarets. It needs no acquaintance to make it palatable, it establishes itself a favorite right off. The port is light but with character, and the sherry would soon be liked. Altogether the samples show that Canada can manufacture wine and can also compete with her neighbors. This information is founded on experience, because the reporter, rather than misstate facts, religiously sampled each bottle in company with Mr. G. C. Shaw.

Natural History Society.

The next field meeting of the British Columbia Natural History Society will be held at Beaver Lake on Saturday week. The conchologists are likely to have a good time, there being numerous varieties of land and fresh water shells in that locality.

On Pleasure Bent.

The launch Lillian, the property of Mr. Paul Schultze, of Tacoma, took out her clearance papers yesterday and leaves this morning for Port Crescent, taking with her a party, among them Mr. Lubbe, who are anticipating a considerable amount of enjoyment.

Commercial Activity.

The wharves from the railroad bridge to the extreme south end show a particularly active appearance just now, a large amount of freight being received and promptly taken from the wharves to destination so as to make room for the new merchandise that daily pours in. This is the best indication of Victoria's progress in commerce.

Leaving the Drydock.

This afternoon, at 3 o'clock, H.M.S. Esquimalt will, it is announced, leave the drydock. At 1 o'clock water will be let in and, considering the quantities of fish in Esquimalt harbor, it will no doubt be a curious sight to see them trooping into the enclosure. Doubtless there will be a few who will run up to see the sight of letting the water in and letting the vessel out.

Optimism on the City of Puebla.

Customs house officers in San Francisco on Monday seized twenty-five 5-tal boxes of opium on the steamer City of Puebla. The drug was found in a box in Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express box. The small box was thus addressed:

"Mr. Oscar Metz, care of Louis Hoeckel, grocer, corner Leavenworth and Edly streets; glass—this side up, with care." No arrests have been made.

Rita Carries the Broom.

Mr. Schultze's launch Lillian came across Mr. McFaville's Ritz in Esquimalt harbor yesterday, and instead of the engineers pouring oil on the troubled waters it was poured into the tiny engines. The screws churned up the water furiously all the way into Victoria harbor, but it was noticed that the little Rita got on her dignity and showed sister Lillian a clean pair of heels. Rita carries the broom now.

The Wellington Strike.

At a special meeting of the Trade's Assembly of Victoria, held on Monday night, a strong feeling was manifested favorable to an adjustment by arbitration of the difficulties between the Wellington miners and the Messrs. Dunsmuir. It was after discussing the situation resolved to hold a mass meeting on Thursday (to-morrow) evening, in the Victoria theatre, to which Mr. Tully Boyce, President of the Miners Association, was to be invited.

Evading the Doorkeeper.

Last night as Constable Hawton was coming along Douglas street he noticed a number of boys in front of the Victoria Theatre building. It struck him that their numbers became diminished in a remarkably rapid manner, and when he got up he found that some of them had disappeared through the cellar gratings, with the apparent idea of working their way by that circuitous route into the theatre proper, giving Miss Granger the benefit of their patronage. A search was made for them, but they were not to be found.

A Successful Engagement.

Miss Maude Granger and her talented company concluded a successful engagement at the Victoria last evening in "The Creole" (her own version). This version improves the play in some respects; lending it additional power and depth in many passages, but a second hearing of the whole would enable the spectator to more fully appreciate it. There is a great deal of speech making, and there always is in these dramas, but this rarely becomes tiresome. Indeed the sarcasm, plottings and sometimes very sharp sayings take from it any semblance of tediousness that would otherwise be apparent. Miss Granger had ample opportunity to shine in all three, and the support lent her by Mr. Harry Mainhall, who never overacted his role and was invariably manly, was of the most valuable character. The entire company played with the view of leaving behind them a favorable impression in Victoria, and they succeeded.

Innocent Amusement.

"Thistles" was the burden of the song at the police court yesterday morning with the usual monotonous result. The only new case in addition to a drunk, was a summons issued against a man named Thomas Johnson. It takes two summonses to induce Mr. Johnson to come to his honor's reception. He suffers from a shy, retiring and extremely sensitive disposition and consequently the effort attendant on his appearance in public is very harassing. The kind persuasiveness of a police officer, however, was brought to bear upon him in addition to the pressing language contained in the summons, and now Mr. Johnson will make his debut this morning somewhat reassured as to the rules and regulations governing the ceremony. Johnson indulges in the harmless amusement of beating his wife. Of course this is punishable, but it is well known that the penalty is usually of the lightest possible nature for this diversion. If a man ill uses his horse, cuts it up with a wire whip, for instance, he'll surely get six months hard labor. It's only a month or two for half killing one's wife.

Coming Improvements.

People owning property on Government and other principal streets are beginning to assume the matter of laying down sidewalks themselves. A considerable start has been made on several thoroughfares where there is a good deal of traffic, and on Government street alone is a very noticeable improvement on the state of things which existed not more than a year ago. A number of prominent store-keepers are strongly in favor of the asphalt sidewalks, and noticing what a decided benefit it is where it has already been laid down, are considering the advisability of continuing the work if only they will be given some assistance from the city in acknowledgement of the improvement. One contract has been entered into by the Pacific Asphalt Paving Co. for a sidewalk from Fort street along Government street to Broughton street and several yards up Fort street, while, on the opposite corner, in front of Morrison's drug store, will be laid several yards of asphalt. One hundred yards will also be laid on Johnson street to continue that already put down at Mr. Saunders's store. Besides there are several smaller contracts on hand, and a number in contemplation.

No Secrecy of Coal.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Wellington mines are under a cloud as it were, owing to the strike now prevailing, it can be observed that the C. P. N. company has large piles of coal on its wharf. It is absolutely necessary that the company should have a large supply of fuel continually on hand to the proper carrying on of its business.

Wreck of the Etta White.

On Monday Capt. H. A. Mellon returned to Vancouver from the wreck of the Etta White, which has been located in eight fathoms of water. The vessel struck on a rock not hitherto known or marked on the chart, and covered by only one foot and a half of water at low tide, and which being in the track of vessels will prove a dangerous risk to navigation till it is properly buoyed for the guidance of ship-masters.

More Work for the Post Office Employees.

The steamship City of Pekin, which arrived from Asiatic ports on Monday, landed 32 large sacks China and Japan mail matter at this port, destined for England, Eastern Canada and the Eastern States. The mail included over 2,000 sample packages tea. It is the intention in future by the Japanese postal authorities to have the European and Eastern mails brought here by the P. M. steamers, where it will be assorted and sent on to its destination.

For The Golden Gate.

The following passengers from Victoria embarked on the Umatilla for San Francisco yesterday morning:—D. Ross, A. W. Smith, Mrs. R. Warwick, W. H. Hall, Wm. Moser, jr., J. V. Blanchard, H. Plowman, G. R. Warwick and wife, Mrs. John Haggerty, Mrs. M. T. Davidson, Mrs. Hayne and daughter, Mrs. McIntosh, Henry Marbois, jr., A. Haynes, M. C. Fitzgerald, James Shaw, Mrs. Bushby and Miss Bushby.

And the Cloud Passed Over.

There was almost war, as well as rumors of war, in the air on the Esquimalt road yesterday, and for some time the atmosphere looked very black indeed. Indeed it looked as though there was going to be a trial ending in a war to what was afterwards settled in the most amicable manner. Early in the history of the construction of the Esquimalt section of the street car line a blockade was declared, and for a short time it seemed as though the lines would either be stopped altogether or else sent by another route, but the storm passed over and the sunshine of progress shone on the work once more till yesterday, when another cloud hung over the construction. The gang had some work to do on a part of the road running through a lot belonging to a certain resident. The latter waxed with at what he considered an unwarrantable trespass, and vowed the direst vengeance on anyone who attempted to lay tracks in that vicinity. Of course the track laying was being prosecuted on the public road, and there was no legal justification for the gentleman's interference. He persisted, however, and there was trouble, it seemed at first as though there would soon be lead in a state of locomotion between the foreman of the construction party and the gentleman in question. The latter went to procure his fowling piece but couldn't find it, and another gentleman who was present interfered and brought the matter to a bloodless termination.

Church Social.

The Ladies Sewing circle of St. James' Anglican church, gave an ice cream social, last night, in the Cathedral school house to a large, influential and deeply interested audience. During the evening a deep warmth of feeling was manifested which was in no way cooled by the liberal supplies of ice cream that were distributed through the audience, which was representative not alone of the James Bay congregation but of the sister churches in Victoria. The Ven. Archdeacon "circulated freely" among his people and their friends, who highly appreciated his "eloquent and deeply interesting" and musical feature of the entertainment were in the highest degree praiseworthy, and but that the writer does not believe in "encores," might be said to be well worthy a recall. The following was the CHINESE ARRIVALS.

Their Number, Destination and Objects—Information Regarding Them.

Of the 103 Chinese who arrived by the ss. "City of Pekin," one belonged to Victoria and one to Vancouver. The remainder had to be registered. Most of the newly arrived Chinese were enroute for Mexico and Peru. Some thirty of these were enroute for the latter place, and come from within about ten miles of Canton. Those who were destined for Mexico had the idea of carrying on opium farms, for which they have been given to understand that the climate and other conditions are favorable.

The crops of rice in the south of China are reported to be good and in view of present high prices the fact causes great satisfaction.

It is rumored that the conditions in the north of China being regarded as just as favorable to opium culture as those existing in India, this industry will receive an impetus in the Pekin District, particularly if, as anticipated, the Government give it encouragement.

The ss. City of Pekin having brought out 101 Chinese immigrants, the sum of $5,050 was collected from them or on their behalf by way of poll tax. The steamship, which has a tonnage of 5,070, brought out the full complement of immigrants allowed by the law, which is not more than one for each fifty tons. Collector Milne strongly emphasized this provision of the law in speaking to the authorities of the steamship, which landed every passenger which it was allowable to do.

All things considered, the examination of the new arrivals was conducted in a very expeditious manner, but had the vessel been brought alongside the wharf it might have been done much more quickly. The depth of water was ample for a vessel of the draught of the Pekin, and when the new wharf is finished, vessels drawing 30 feet will have no difficulty and no danger in coming close in.

Only a Sister.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

THE RIFLE.

THE OTTAWA RIFLE TEAM.

The time for the departure of this team draws very close, and as yet there has been no stir made to insure its going. If no better effort is made the present indications are that British Columbia will be conspicuous by its absence at Ottawa this year. This will not be creditable to the province in Eastern rifle circles. There should be no difficulty in raising the funds, for, in the words of the song, "We've got the men and we've got the money, too." British Columbia boasts many good shots who can hold their own with the Dominion, why should the credit of the province be allowed to go to the wall simply because the weather is a little warm and there is a consequent lack of energy in pushing the thing forward.

LAWY TENNIS.

The tournament was continued yesterday in charming weather and with a large attendance of spectators.

The following ties were played off:

OPEN SINGLES.

G. Wrey beat R. Scott, 6-2, 6-1; J. Musgrave's opponent withdrew; F. G. Walter beat T. O. Critchley 6-1, 6-0; C. J. Loewen beat L. Crease 6-1, 6-3; R. B. Abdy beat C. J. Loewen 6-3, 6-1.

LADIES' SINGLES.

The final of the ladies' single will be played this afternoon about 5 o'clock, and other matches will be played throughout the day.

WRESTLING.

Parson Davies has deposited $250 at San Francisco, as a guarantee that Evan Lewis is willing to wrestle McLeod, and articles of agreement now await the latter's signature to complete the match.

Joe Acton is out with a challenge. He will agree to forfeit $250 to any wrestler on the coast, barring Evan Lewis, whom he cannot throw in fifteen minutes at catch-as-catch-can. Donner, Quinn, Richardson and Cameron are included in the challenge. Cameron would be his most formidable opponent, as he is so much heavier than Acton, and it is not improbable that he will accept the defi.

IMPORTANT SEIZURE.

A Pack Train of Twelve Horses Heavily Loaded Captured While Crossing the Boundary.

Port Townsend Leader: Some three weeks ago Collector Bradshaw received information that a pack train of twelve horses, driven by three Chinamen, was making its way from British Columbia to the American side. It was presumed that the Celestials had goods which they were trying to smuggle into the country, and as indications pointed to some parts of the United States back of Spokane Falls as sure to be the heading place for the smugglers, Collector Bradshaw wired Oliver and Friedlander to start out after the law-breakers. The latter were intercepted at a hamlet known as Ososoyos Point. They were taken to Spokane before the United States Commissioner, and the city and were last Saturday heard over for trial before Judge Hanford. The above is all the information upon the subject as yet obtained in this city. Collector Bradshaw received a telegram giving the news Sunday afternoon. It is not known what sort of merchandise the Chinamen were trying to bring into the country, but that the cargo is a most valuable one the precautions taken to bring it in go to prove.

MILLIONS MORE.

J. W. Mackay the California Millionaire Elected a C. P. R. Director.

A telegram was received last evening stating that John W. Mackay, the bonanza king of California had been elected a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He will undoubtedly be of great benefit to Canada's transcontinental railway, not only on account of his financial standing, but also in view of the fact that American capitalists are at the present time exercising a strong opposing influence against C. P. R. interests at Washington.

OMAHA VISITS VICTORIA.

An Influential Deputation From the Above Flourishing Nebraska City Visits the Gem City of the Coast.

A party composed of the civic government and Board of Trade of Omaha, Neb., arrived by the Olympian last evening to spend a day of pleasure in Victoria. The visitors' names are: C. L. Chaffee, president of the council, Councilors E. L. Blumer, E. P. Davis, F. J. Kasper, John McLeary, G. F. Morcarty, B. F. Madsen, Henry Osthoff, Thomas Olsen, Ed. Connor, Wm. G. Shriver, A. H. Sander, Daniel H. Wheeler, Geo. L. Dennis, superintendent of plumbing; James Flannery, street commissioner; St. A. D. Balcomb, ex chairman of the board of public works; and Harry Counsman, deputy city clerk.

The party were received at the landing by a deputation of the Victoria Board of Trade, composed of President Robert Ward, Vice-President T. B. Hall, and Councilors Hon. J. H. Turner, James Fell, H. F. Heisterman, A. C. Flummerfelt, Thomas Earle, M. P., E. A. McQuade, D. Kerr, F. Bourchier, and E. Elworthy, secretary. It is the intention to drive the party down to Esquimalt this morning and see the warships that are in the harbor. As the hours for visiting the flagships are between one and five o'clock p.m., it is very probable that the visitors will also wait to see the interesting process of unloading the Esquimalt, which takes place at one o'clock. On returning to town they will be entertained by their hosts, the Board of Trade, assisted probably by the Mayor and council. The visit is purely one of pleasure, but the holidays will be on the look out for any information or pointers that may be of use to them at home.

A NEW SUBMARINE BOAT.

THE NOVEL CRAFT CAN REMAIN UNDER WATER 24 HOURS.

It is of French Device, and is Called the Goubet—The Results Said to be Highly Successful—Its Size and Capacity.

While the new Spanish submarine boat Peral is having its final trials at Cadiz and all Spain and Spanish America is putting itself out to honor the young inventor who invented and constructed it, a new submarine boat, whose performances are alleged to throw those of the Spaniard entirely into the shade, is being tested successfully at Cherbourg, in France. France has already made one experiment of that sort, the Gymnote, of which much was prophesied but little heard after a trial trip or two. That was a boat like the Peral, built to carry a crew of ten or a dozen men, and constructed much on the model of an ordinary fish torpedo, vastly enlarged. The new boat, called the Goubet, after its inventor, is about 18 feet long and 5 feet in diameter, and requires a crew of but two or three persons. Its total weight is seven tons, so that it can be easily carried about on board of an ordinary man-of-war, or transported by rail from one port to another. The hull is made of a single piece of bronze, and it is shaped somewhat like an elongated egg, with a pointed nose, projection like fins at the sides, and a little propeller for a tail. Upon the top is a small dome, through which is the entrance to the interior. Around the edges of this are deep holes, filled with glass. The motive power, like that of the Peral and the Gymnote, is electricity. The air in the vessel is kept pure by means of oxygen compressed in tanks, while the foul air is expelled by pumps. The supply of oxygenated air is regulated automatically in such a way as to keep the atmosphere within the boat at normal pressure.

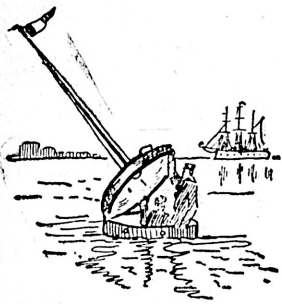

APPROACHING AN IRON-CLAD.

It is claimed for the new boat that it can be handled under water or upon the surface with perfect ease, twisting and turning at full speed under the absolute control of the pilot; that it can remain below twenty-four hours, or even longer if necessary, without ever having to come to the surface, and that it can remain motionless at any given depth beneath the surface for any length of time, instead of having to keep moving constantly to avoid coming to the surface, as was the case with the Gymnote. Minor advantages alleged to exist are the possible substitution of submarine cars for motive power in case of the breakdown of the engine; the provision by means of a ton of lead attached to the keel and detachable at the touch of a button, for the instant rise of the boat to the surface in case of accident; the ease of the steering which is done by the same propeller that moves the boat, the possibility of sending messages to the surface enclosed in wooden cases, while the boat remains submerged.

The handiness of the vessel upon the surface has been proven at several trials, as has also its ability to remain beneath the surface for any indefinite time. The longest time it has yet remained submerged was eight hours. There were two men aboard then, and they suffered no hardships whatever, but passed the time playing cards. After that test it was alleged that there was oxygen enough in the chambers for twenty hours.

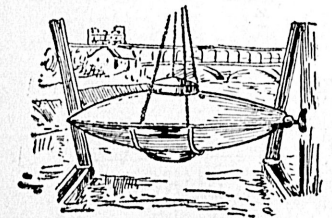

Another time, after the vessel had remained below for several hours, it came to the surface unexpectedly, and it was supposed that some accident had happened. When a boat reached the spot, however, the crew had opened the man hole and were sitting on the edge waiting to get some coffee with which to wind up the dinner they had been enjoying twenty feet under water. The same tests have proven the ability of the boat to remain motionless under water at any given depth. A point which remains to be determined is the speed of the boat and the ability to manoeuvre it safely under water near a rough and uneven coast, or among the shipping in a harbor with its anchor chains and other obstruction. The authorities of the port at Cherbourg have refused to allow the use of electricity in the enclosed portion of the harbor where the Goubet now is and the inventor of the boat has had therefore to take out the electrical apparatus used in the first tests and substitute a temporary contrivance for moving the boat during the tests as to buoyancy and other points. These are concluded, and the electrical power will be replaced and the final trial made in a short time.

The design is that the vessel shall be navigated most of the time with its dome above water. Through the little glass windows in the side of this the surface of the sea for a long distance around can be constantly surveyed. The dome is so small that it will be a hard mark to hit when in motion, and the boat can safely approach within a comparatively short distance of a hostile vessel with the dome above water. When the balls from the rapid-fire guns of the enemy get to coming unpleasantly near, the submarine Captain can take a good aim, sink below the water, and shoot ahead at full speed, until the torpedo with which the bow is armed strikes something and goes off. If nothing is struck,

THE GOUBET OUT OF WATER.

The Captain will know that he has undershot his mark or that his aim has been bad, and he will have to come to the surface and take a peek at his surroundings before trying again.

L. Goubet is however, as was upon an apparatus which if successful, will do away with the uncertainty due to the impossibility of seeing far ahead below water, which is a chief difficulty with submarine navigation. He says that by an arrangement of mirrors he will be able, at the next test of his Goubet, to see everything upon the surface of the water anywhere near while his boat remains completely submerged. When he can do this he can slip up safely at his leisure to within a few feet of the biggest ironclad afloat, fire a torpedo into one side of her, dodge around to the other side and give her another one there, and if that doesn't do the business, blow her propellers and rudder to pieces with a third torpedo, all without the folks aboard the big boat getting a glimpse of him. The only trouble will be that the big ironclad will be moving about all the time at the rate of fifteen or twenty miles an hour, if her commander suspects submarine boats are around, and unless the Goubet has a good deal more speed than such a small boat is likely to develop, it will never get within hitting distance of the ironclad except by luck.—N. Y. Sun.

HOW TO HANDLE A GUN.

Some Good Advice to Boys by a Veteran Sportsman.

Let me tell you how to learn to aim a shotgun. It is a very simple thing when once you have mastered it.

Lift the weapon with both hands, the right clasp the stock just below the guard, the left supporting the barrels. Look with both eyes steadily at the object to be shot at, and at the same time bring the middle of the barrels straight under the line of vision of the right eye. Pull the trigger instantly.

When you are ready to go into the field to shoot game you must keep well in mind the following rules for handling your gun:

READY.

1. Never let the muzzle of your piece point at any person.
2. Always carry your gun with the muzzle pointing away from you.
3. When climbing a fence put your gun over first, after taking out both shells.
4. Never drag a gun towards you.

Nearly half the accidents that have happened to boys from the handling of guns have been owing to the neglect of the fourth of the above rules.

Most boys know that it is considered unsportsmanlike to shoot at any bird when it is not flying, or at any hare or rabbit that is not running. It is the law of "polite shooting" that the game must have a fair chance to escape, especially when the shotgun is used.

Target practice is well enough to train the shooter in aiming, but there is no way of learning to shoot game save going into the field and hanging away at it.

AID.

Even after you have learned to control your nerves you will find it very hard at first to hit your bird, because you will forget to aim ahead of it if flying across your line of sight, or above it rising, or below it if flying downward.

In hare shooting it is necessary to "allow" for running by aiming a trifle above the game when it is running straight away from you. This is because your line of sight is above it as you stand.

The shotgun requires the very best of care in order to do good work. It must be kept perfectly clean and must always be loaded to suit its "habit," as I call it. By this I mean that each gun has a capacity or quality for shooting a certain load best, and any other load will lessen its effectiveness. By a little experimenting you can find out the load that best suits your piece.

Carry your gun on your shoulder with the muzzle elevated and the hammers down, save when you are expecting game to rise, then you may hold it at "ready," which is as follows: Cock both barrels, grasp the stock with the right hand, as in firing, and sustain the barrels at an upward angle in the left hand, just in front of and across the breast, the breech-head a little below the right elbow. This gives perfect freedom of action when the game rises. Moreover, it is the safest position in which to carry the gun both for yourself and your companions, if you have any.

Never be in a hurry with a gun, no matter what the apparent emergency; it is the deliberate and cool sportsman that is quickest and surest. Remember that what is done as a habit is done perfectly, and all that you have to do to make a crack shot of yourself is to learn to fire habitually by the most approved rule.

Too Many Sisters.

"That's all right," he said, as he took up his hat, "but I have got seventeen sisters already. You are now down on the list as the eighteenth. Speaking with a full knowledge of all the facts, some girl has got to stop this one-sided streak of relationship pretty soon or I will disown the whole family."—Philadelphia Times.

At School.

Teacher—Somebody has been throwing paper behind my back. Moves, can you tell me who it was?

Moves (who was the culprit himself)—I know who it was, but I hardly like to tell. Teacher—A trifle too scrupulous, perhaps, but it shows honorable feeling on your part. You may sit down.—Humoristische Blätter.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

SOME NOTES OF INTEREST TO THE FAIR SEX.

A Nobby Spring Jacket—Pretty Ornaments For the Hair—What It Costs to Dress the Fashionables of Paris.

A Nobby Spring Jacket.

A typical spring jacket of metropolitan fashion is of a silvery gray cloth with close fitting back and loose straight front lapped at the left and fastened by two straps and two smoked pearl buttons. The high collar rolls outward and there is an edging of gold and silver braid. Another good model is of light green cloth with white vest and high set coat sleeves.

Blue is a very popular color. Embroidery is used for trimming muslin, silk and cashmere dresses.

Queen Victoria is a sufferer from rheumatism which has become chronic.

Victoria Dorothy will be the name of the new arrival in the Duke of Portland's family. The Queen will be godmother.

Mme. Patti says: "I have dressed my hair the same for ten years; not because the coiffure was the style, but because it is becoming to my style."

Buy a black straw hat, put a band of Parisian or Turkish embroidery about the crown and skewer it with a couple of silver-headed pins and you have an Easter bonnet.

Carpets may be greatly brightened by first sweeping thoroughly and then going over them with a clean cloth and clear salt and water. Use a cupful of coarse salt to a large basin of water.

The beautiful Duchess of Malborough wears three gold bracelets from which three gold keys hang on pendant. One opens the lock of her Grace's jewel-box, the other belongs to her writing folio and the third to a small satchel, brass-bound, in which she keeps her loose money.

Mme. Patti sleeps with a silk handkerchief round her neck. She uses a very salty gargle of cold water every morning. Mme. Allani-Gye says that drugs are useless. She gargles her throat with ice-water every few hours and gets immediate relief. For hiccups she uses gelatin drops.

There are no prettier hair ornaments than the little side combs of shell, the teeth of which bury themselves in the hair leaving the curve only visible. These rims are made of enamelling representing a string of May-bells or a ribbon of daisies. Then there is the reposse of silver and the antique scroll work of soft yellow gold. All of these are pretty in blonde or brown hair but combs studded with pearls are most beautiful for raven tresses.

A woman with a pot of white paint is as good as a sunbeam in a dark house. Have a single breadth of carpet on the stairs and along the hall, which is sufficient to catch the footfall. On either side of the Brussels or velvet lay on the paint, regardless of the make-up of the walls and baseboards. It will take a little extra care to keep these stretches of white clean, but the delight to tired eyes and unwary feet will repay for this trouble.

From a careful inquiry made in the saloons of ten of the leading Paris dressmakers, it is estimated that it requires 25,000,000 francs worth of costumes to equip the fashionable women of the French capital. The grand total is thus divided: Court and dinner dresses, 6,000,000; walking and visiting costumes, 4,000,000; gowns for the demi-monde, 8,000,000; costumes of the leading Republican ladies, 3,000,000, and sporting and travelling dresses, 4,000,000. Dramatic stars get their costumes at cost, the profit being thought to be received in the way of "reclame" or advertisement.

Feigned Death to Escape Debt.

An ingenious female living in the Boulevard de Rochechouart lately failed in business, and a writ was issued for the sale of her effects. Yesterday an officer of the court, or huissier, went with a police inspector to the woman's abode in order to seize her goods, but they rang the bell of her door in vain. As the key of the dwelling, however, was in its place the inspector turned it, and the pair then entered the rooms of the debtor, in one of which a strange and sombre scene was presented to their startled sight. On a bed in the centre of the room was the apparently dead body of the female fraud, laid out in all the trappings of woe, and ready for the French equivalent of a "wake." Around the presumed corpse was ranged six tall candlesticks, with lighted tapers therein. The huissier, deeming that he had to deal with a genuine dead body, instantly prepared to withdraw with his writ, but the police inspector, more inquisitive and suspicious than the process server, went over to the bed, and, attracted by the extraordinary plumpness of the arms of the corpse, pinched them with considerable vehemence. There was an instantaneous bringing of the dead to life. The corpse—chalked carefully as to its face—sat up in its shroud, spoke words to the effect that the trick had failed, and confessed all. The candles were quickly snuffed out, the mourning drapery pulled down, and the process server proceeded speedily to confiscate everything appertaining either to life or death in the domicile of this deceitful female debtor.

With Moberly Bell as Editor.

The kind of dual management which has for some time past been in force at the Times office, the two sons of Mr. John Walter, "two Kings of Brentford," smiling at one rose, "has not worked well. These gentlemen are half-brothers, but do not pull well together. Finally, it has been decided to appoint a new general manager, vice Macdonald, deceased, and the choice has fallen on Mr. Moberly Bell, for some years the representative of the Times at Cairo. On Thursday last Mr. Bell was introduced to the head of departments, and he is now regularly installed. He is reputedly a clever man, but whether he will prove up to the management of a great daily journal remains yet to be seen.

IN THE SOCIALISTIC STATE.

With Thanks To Edward Bellamy Translated From the German.

Time—Seven a. m.
Scene—Breakfast room of Citizen G, 357a, Citizen—Ann, is the coffee ready?
Citizeness G, 357b—No. I have no beans left, I was too weak yesterday to call for our ounce of beans at the public office. Then we have no wood or coal. They give us only half a pail per day, and that is not half enough.
Citizen G, 357a—Mother don't grumble.
Wife—I wanted to warn for you yesterday's state dinner.
Citizen—But you know, Ann, I cannot eat pens and pork. What will they give us today?

Wife—Beans and corn-beef.
He—Always pens or beans.
She—Be patient, old man. You'll have your favorite dish, sour cel soup, on the second Sunday of next month.
He—Has "The Socialist" arrived?
She—Here it is.

He (reads)—"All children about to reach the age of five years during this century must be delivered to the public academy on the 10th inst." "All girls about to reach the age of fifteen years must have their names entered in the marriage register before the 17th." "The former Minister of Trade had an accident yesterday while carting manure and sprained his ankle." "As henceforth all houses are to be built alike, the profession of architect is abolished." "The general dress for next summer is ordered to be a blue blouse with soldier's trousers. All the military uniforms are to be used up." "Three hundred and fifty-seven former, now useless, goldsmiths, will be employed as street-car drivers, mail carriers, etc." "Lamps may burn only from 5:30 to 9:30 p. m. from next November 1." "Four hundred masons and carpenters were sent from New York to Pittsburgh to be employed in the mines in that neighborhood. Perhaps their families will be sent after them." "Day before yesterday 2,969 women of over forty years— Come in!"

Inspector of the People's State—Does Citizen G, 357a live here?
Citizen—My name is Smith.
Inspector—We have no names any more; for one might have a high-sounding, the other a vulgar name. Equality above all. Now, tell me why are you still in bed? The public day begins at 7.

Citizen—I am sick.
Inspector—Then you ought to have turned out at 6 o'clock and reported for examination at the office. Get up immediately. (To the wife)—What are you idling about here?

Citizen—I do not wish you to talk to my wife with such familiarity.
Inspector—Nonsense! We don't know any such thing as familiarity, for we stand all on the same footing. You are detailed to pave the street.

Citizen—But I am a jeweller.
Inspector—Nonsense! Jewellers are no longer needed. Here is an official notification for you. Your oldest daughter will be married to-morrow.

Wife—But to whom?
Inspector—To Citizen F, 3554, or Citizen L, 639. It has not yet been decided.
Wife—But she would like to have W, 347.

Inspector—That does not concern us. She has to make up her mind, or else she will be sent to Fools City. Your youngest child is five years old and you have concealed it. I'll take him with me now, and he may come and visit you in about a year. (Father and child get ready and leave the house with the Inspector.)

Has His Train Through the One Ahead.
"There are heroes and heroes, and there are heroines and heroines," said Chaucery M. Depew in speaking of the matter of personal bravery. "There are blue-shirted men who go over our railroad lines every day in engine cars who would laugh at you if you intimated to them that they are heroes, and who in spite of all are as brave as any man who ever drew a sword or carried a musket. Railroad men seldom have much time to think. They are cowards or heroes in a second. Not long ago one of our engineers of an express train rounded a turn in the road and saw that another train had been derailed, and lay right across the track. A collision was inevitable. The engineer might have taken chances and jumped, but he didn't. As he said afterward: 'I saw right away we were in for it, and like a flash it struck me that our only chance was to go right ahead and cut through, if we could. So I threw her open and let her go.'"

"The experiment was perilous, but it was successful. He did 'cut through,' and no one was injured. This act of the engineer was that of an exceedingly courageous, cool-headed man."
"Another engineer on a Western road performed a similar act some time ago with tragic results. He tried to— or in fact was forced to try to—cut through a freight train that had been thrown across the track. None of the passengers was injured, but the engineer, and fireman were killed. This is but too often the reward of bravery in all walks of life."—Philadelphia Press.

Babies for Crocodile Bait.

If mother in general shared the nerve exhibited by mothers in Ceylon, trouble would be spared in many a household. "Babies wanted for crocodile bait. Will be returned alive," says "The New-Zealand Tablet." If newspapers abounded in Ceylon as much as crocodiles do, advertisements like the foregoing would be common in their want columns. As it is, the English crocodile hunter has to secure his baby by personal solicitation. He is often successful, for Ceylon parents, as a rule, have unbending confidence in the hum trues and will rear their babies out to be used as crocodile bait for a small consideration. Ceylon crocodiles suffer greatly from ennui; they prefer to lie quite still, soothed by the sun's glittering rays, and while away their lazy lives in meditation.

But when a dark brown infant with curling toes, sits on a bank and blinks at them, they throw off their cloak of laziness and make their preparations for a delicate morsel of Ceylonese humanity. When the crocodile gets about half way up the bank, the hunter, concealed behind some reeds, opens fire, and the hungry crocodile has his appetite and life taken away at the same time, the baby being brought home safely to its loving mamma.

The sportsman secures the skin and head of the crocodile, and the rest of the carcass the natives make use of.—Ceylon Catholic Messenger.

CHLOROXYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE. Advice to Invalids—If you wish to obtain relief from pain and anguish, to calm and quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, assuage the weary aching of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating system of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne, the Army Medical Staff, to which he gave the name of Chloroxyne, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLOROXYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Cholera, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLOROXYNE effectively cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLOROXYNE is the only palliative in Neuritis, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, etc.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's "Chloroxyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Caution—Beware of Pimples and Imitations. Sole Manufacturer—J. T. DAVENPORT, 33 Great Russell-square, Bloomsbury, London. 1625-6ms-law

THE OCEAN TERMINUS OF THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

PORT CRESCENT.

A FEW UNDENIABLE FACTS:

President T. F. Oakes says the Victoria, Port Crescent and Chehalis Railway will be completed by the 31st December, 1891. This will make Port Crescent the terminus of the strongest corporation on the American Continent. Work on the breakwater will commence immediately and will be completed during next year; the Harbor will then accommodate 120 ships, allowing one cable (see Minard on Harbors) to each large merchant vessel in which to swing, not including twice that number which might be tied up to wharves. Port Crescent will then be possessed of one of the best harbors on the coast.

The soundings on the Company's Map are guaranteed to be correct.

More than 3,000,000 acres of the richest land in the State of Washington, lying to the West and Southwest, are directly tributary to Port Crescent.

It is confidently predicted that in ten years the population of Port Crescent will rival that of Tacoma and Seattle combined.

We strongly recommend to our friends and the public generally the advisability of securing a few lots at present prices. Lots, that to-day can be bought for hundreds, will be worth in a few months as many thousands. We have a limited number of choice lots at present on sale.

LOCAL.

The boiler and a quantity of machinery belonging to the steam dredge at Nanaimo have arrived at Spratt's wharf, thence to be taken to the Albion Iron Works for repairs.

The ship Celeste Burrill was towed up to Nanaimo this morning by the steamer Lorne, to take in a cargo of coal; the freight on the steamer Rainbow left yesterday morning with a full cargo, having taken a large amount of freight from the inner wharves for Cowichan, New Westminster, the Fraser river canneries and Burrard Inlet, and at the outer wharf freight ex steamer Walla Walla destined for New Westminster.

Steamer Princess Louise took a large party of excursionists from Westminster to Plummer's Pass yesterday. The pleasure seekers were the members of the Sons of England resident in the Royal City. The steamer is due here this morning, and, as will be seen by advertisement in another column, will leave tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon for Naas river and intermediate ports. Shippers are requested to have their freight delivered at Spratt's wharf as early as possible in order that the steamer may not be detained, as it is desired to leave promptly at the hour mentioned. On her return trip the Princess Louise, it is expected, will bring a full cargo of Skeena and Naas river salmon. The impression which has gotten abroad that the steamer was detained in starting on this trip has no foundation in fact.

Steamer R. P. Rithet was engaged all day yesterday loading freight for the canneries and New Westminster. The freight, in these points at this particular season is always large. This cargo included a large consignment of furniture from the east, ex steamer Kingston.

The steamer Straits of Belle Isle sailed from Vancouver on Monday morning for Japan and China. She had 1,370 tons of cargo composed of flour, cotton and lumber; the flour and cotton for Hong Kong and Shanghai, and lumber for Yokohama. She had no European passengers, but took 22 Chinese and 2 Japanese.

A new tug boat has been launched at Vancouver named the Earl. The vessel is 30 feet long over all, 7 feet 6 inches deep, 16 feet beam, and is very stoutly built with a very heavy keel. The engines were built by John Doty & Son, of Toronto.

Steamer Maude, on her arrival in a few days, it is expected, will resume the regular monthly trip to Alberni. Enquiries at the office of the company elicited the fact that the date has not yet been fixed.

FREIGHT AND TRADE.

The Kingston brought in two cars of flour and one of merchandise last evening.

The Islander last evening brought over one car of sugar, two cars of pipe and one car of paint and oil.

Dominion's French tissue paper for flower making at Daley's.

LITTLE LOCALS.

There will be a full bench at the sessions of the Supreme court to-day.
